"In Memoriam." By Father Ryan
We are indebted to Rev. A. J. Ryan, the gifted Southern poet, for a manuscript copy of the lines on the death of his brother, a Confederate soldier, who died on one of the battle-fields of Kentucky. It was one of the pieces read at the entertainments for the benefit of the Catholic orphans, on Thursday evening, and Father Ryan's introduction to the reading of it was thrillingly pathetic and eloquent, and was received by the audience attentively, with most impressive silence.

Thou art sleeping, brother, sleeping
In thy lonely battle grave;
Shadow's o'er the path are creeping—
Death, the Reaper, still is reaping—
Years are swept and years are sweeping
Many a memory from my keeping,
But I'm waiting still and weeping
For my beautiful and brave.

When the battle songs were chanted,
And war's stirring tocsin pealed;
By whose songs their hearts were haunted
And thy spirits proved undaunted,
Clamored wildly—wildly panted—
"Mother let my wish be granted!
I will ne'er be mocked and taunted
That I feared to meet our vanquished
Foemen on the bloody field."

"They are thronging, Mother, thronging
To a thousand fields of fame;
Let me go—'tis wrong and wronging
God and thee to crush this longing;
On the muster-roll of glory,
On the field of battle gory,
I must consecrate my name."

"Mother, gird my sword around me;
Kiss my soldier-boy good bye."
In her arms she wildly wound thee,
To thy birthland's cause she bound thee,
With loud prayers and blessings crowned thee,
And she sobbed—"when foes surround thee,
If you fall, I'll know you found thee,
Where the bravest love to die."

At the altar of their nation,
Stood that mother and her son;
He—the victim of oblation,
Panting for his immolation;
She—in priestess' holy station
Weaving words of consecration
While God smiled his approbation
Blessed the boy's self-abnegation
Cheered the mother's desolation
When the sacrifice was done,

Forth like many a noble other,
Went he, whispering soft and low
Good bye—pray for me, my mother;
Sister, kiss me—farewell, brother;
And he strove his grief to smother,
Forth with spirit proud and peerless—
Forth, with footsteps firm and fearless—
And his parting gaze was tearless,
Though his heart was lone and cheerless,
Thus from all he loved to go.

Lo! yon flag of freedom flashing
In the sunny Southern sky!
On—to death and glory dashing—
On—where swords are clanging, clashing—
On—where balls are crashing, crashing—
On—mid perils, dread, appalling—
On—they're falling—falling—falling—
On—they're growing, fewer—fewer—
On—their hearts beat all the truer—
On—on—on—no fear—no filter—
On—though round the battle-altar
There were wounded victims groaning—
On—right on—death—danger braving—
Warring where their flag was waving,
And baptismal blood was laving,
With a tide of crimson water,
All that field of death and slaughter;
On—still on—that bloody laver
Made them brave and made them braver;
On—with never a halt or waver—
On—they're battling—bleeding—bounding,
While the glorious shout is sounding,
"We will win the day or die!"

And they won it—routed—riven,
Reeled the foemen's proud array,
They had struggled long and striven,
Blood in torrents they had given,
But their ranks, dispersed and driven,
Fled disgracefully away.

Many a heart was lonely lying
There that would not thro' again;
Some were dead and some were dying;
Some were silent, some were sighing;
Thus to die—lone—unattended—
Unbewetted and unbereaved—
On that bloody battle plain.

When that twilight, sadly, slowly,
Wrapped its mantle o'er them all;
O'er those thousands lying lowly
Hushed in silence deep and holy,
There was one—his blood was flowing,
And his last life was going—
And his pulse faint—fainter beating
Told his hours were few and fleeting;
And his brow grew white and whiter,
And his eyes shone bright and brighter—
There he lay—like infant dreaming,
With his sword beside him gleaming;
For the hand in life that grasped it,
True to death still fondly clasped it,
There his comrades found him lying,
Mid the heaps of dead and dying,
And the sternest bent weeping,
O'er that lonely sleeper sleeping,
"Twas the midnight—stars shone round him
In a shroud of glory bound him;
And they told us how they found him
Where the bravest love to fall.

Where the woods like banners bending,

Drooped in glory and in gloom—
There, when that sad right was ending,
And the faint, far dawn was blending
With the stars now fast descending—
There—they mute and mournful bore him—
With the stars and shadows o'er him—
There—they laid him down so tender,
And the next day's sun and splendor
Flashed upon my brother's tomb.

From the Land We Love.
Sketch of the First Kentucky Brigade.

BY GEN. GEORGE B. HODGE.

CONTINUED.

In truth, history records no sadder tale than the retreat of the Kentuckians from their native State. For the rest of the army there was yet hope. Far to the South lay their homesteads, and their families rested in security; between those homesteads and those families and the advancing foe were innumerable places where battle might be successfully offered, or where at least the sons of the South might rear a rampart of their bodies over which the invader could not pass; time, political complications, mutations of fortune to which the most successful commanders are liable, might at any time transform the triumph of the Northmen into disaster and defeat. Months must elapse before the advancing columns of the enemy could reach the South, and ere that time arrived pestilence and malaria disease would amid the fens and swamps of the gulf States be crouching in their lair ready to issue forth and grapple with the rash intruders from a more salubrious clime. But for the Kentuckians all was apparently lost. Behind their retiring regiments were the graves of their fathers, and hearthstones, about which clustered every memory of their childhood—there in the possession of the invader were the roof-trees beneath which were gathered wives who, with a wisely smile gleaming even through their tears, had bidden their husbands go forth to do battle for the right, promising to meet them with glad hearts when they returned in the hour of triumph; there were the fair faces which for many a that band had made the starlight of their young lives; there were young and helpless children, for whom the future promised but suffering, poverty, destitution and want; there too were the thousands who had with anxious hearts, groaning beneath the yoke of the oppressor, counted the hours until the footsteps of their deliverers should be heard. On the 13th of February, the brigade crossed the line between Kentucky and Tennessee; a night in which rain and sleet fell incessantly was succeeded by a day of intense and bitter cold. Everything, which could contribute to crush the spirits and weaken the nerves of men, seemed to have combined. But for those dauntless hearts, the bitterness of sacrifice, the weakness of doubt and uncertainty had passed, when by a common impulse, the General, his staff and the field officers dismounted, and placing themselves on foot at the head of the column, with sad and solemn countenances but with erect and soldierly bearing, marched for hours in the advance; and then was observed, for the first time in that brigade, through every grade and every rank, the look of high resolve and stern fortitude, which, amid all the vicissitudes of its fortunes characterized the appearance of its members, and attracted the attention and comment of observers in every State through which it passed. Henceforth for them petty physical discomforts, inconveniences of position, annoyances of inclement weather, scantiness of supplies, rudeness of fare, were nothing, they felt that they could not pass away until a great day should come which they looked forward to with unshaken confidence, and with patient watchfulness. They might never again dispense in their loved, native State the generous hospitality, which had become renowned throughout the continent; what remained to them of life might be passed in penury and exile. Their countrymen might never know how they had lived or where they had died—venal historians might even teach the rising generation to brand their memory with the stigma of treason and shame, but a day was yet to come of the triumph of which they felt they could not be deprived; days, weeks, months might elapse, they could bide their time. State after State might have to be traversed, great rivers might have to be passed, mountain ranges surmounted, hunger and thirst endured, but the day and the hour would surely come when with serrid ranks they should meet the foe, and their hearts burning with the memory of inexpressible wrongs, should in the presence of the God of battles, demand and exact a terrible reckoning for all they had endured and all they had suffered.

A correspondent at Detroit furnishes the Cleveland Herald with a scrap of history in the life of Miss Maria Matilda Kibby, who died at Cleveland in August last. The correspondent says:

Miss Kibby was living in New York in 1860, where she formed the acquaintance of a man named C. H. Niles, living in Erie county, in this State. The girl's parents were wealthy, but she resolved to leave them and go with Niles. They left the State separately, he a few hours in advance. Niles went to Toledo, then returned to Fremont, where the girl met him, and both went to Toledo. Niles secured work in a manufacturing establishment at Toledo, and the girl peddled oranges and cigars. She was so fearful of pursuit by her father that at Fremont she assumed male attire, and this she wore constantly for two years.

As the couple were walking in Toledo one evening, a policeman heard their conversation, discovered the sex of the disguised girl, and she was arrested. Securing her release by donning her proper apparel, the two went to Nashville, the girl again taking men's clothing for her wear. Niles got a position as engineer on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, and Miss Kibby was his fireman. After some time spent in this way, they returned North, went to Medoc gold mines, and thence to Cleveland. Here the girl died, alone among strangers, Niles having gone to Chicago at the time of her fatal sickness. During all the time of their travel and working together they were lawfully married.

The following scene is from "Norwood":

"It was evening twilight. They sat alone on the porch. A few late blossoms of the Chinese honey-suckle shed down a trace of perfume through the air. There were no locusts singing, no katydids nor gurgling crickets, and yet some soft sounds I certainly heard. Not birds, surely! I think it must have been the plash of one honeysuckle blown against another. Yet there is no wind to move them. I hear it again. Listen! It is like the falling of a drop of dew into the silver lake from some birchen leaf! No, that is rude. It is as if two dreams, floating in the night, had clashed; or like the joining of two prayers of love on their way upward; or—nay, it was a kiss!—pure, sacred, holy! It is the soul's symbol, when words fail it. It is the heart's sigh, or interjection, when it has a feeling for which there is no experience."

A young couple had been married by a Quaker, and after the ceremony, he remarked to the husband: "Friend, thou art now at the end of trouble." A few weeks after the young man came to the good minister, boiling over with rage, (his wife was a regular vixen,) "I thought you told me that I was at the end of my troubles?" "So I did, friend, but I did not say which end."

A traveler who has just returned from journeying through Africa, says: "A savage holds to his cows and to his woman." He adds: "The price of a good-looking strong young wife who can carry a heavy jar of water, is ten cows. Throughout savage lands, a family of daughters is exceedingly profitable."

Mark Twain, lecturing on the Feejee Islands, offered to show how the cannibals eat their food, if some lady would lend him a baby. The lecture was not illustrated.

Who ever heard of a woman with pretty ankles and whole stocking, complain of wet side-walks and muddy crossings?

Two lovers about to marry, broke off because the lady wanted to name their first baby John, while the gentleman insisted that he should be called Henry.

A minister putting his hand upon an urchin's shoulder, exclaimed: "My son, I believe the devil has got hold of you. 'I believe so too,' was the reply."

The Scripture says: "The glory of a woman is in her hair," but nowhere does it say that the glory of woman is in any other woman's hair.

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS

CYNTHIANA, KY.

THURSDAY, Jan. 16, 1868.

A. J. MOREY, Editor.

The Whisky Reform Bill.

Congress has been at work on the whisky question for several weeks. It seems now, that an attempt on their part is honestly being made to stop the manufacture and sale of illicit whisky—that every man who makes the article shall pay the tax, according to law. That is just what our people want. The distillers in this county are honest, and make no pretensions other than that of living up strictly to the requirements of the whisky law, and they expect to pay the tax on every gallon they make. The commercial editor of the Louisville Courier is of the opinion that Congress would benefit the country if it would reduce the tax to 25cts. We cannot understand how it would benefit the respectable manufacturers of Kentucky, or those of other States, where a number one article is made, and where they pay the tax. All respectable dealers in liquors will purchase the best whisky manufactured, and they never hesitate to pay from $3 to $25 per gallon, and they purchase the crop made in this country as fast as it is barreled. No, all fair dealers in Kentucky are opposed to a reduction of the tax, for the reason that the whisky is known by dealers to be a superior article. A reduction would injure our people immensely. The bill which has been passed by Congress, does away with all warehouses except those at the distilleries. Here it is:

Washington, Jan. 9.—The House bill, relative to the payment of tax on whisky in bond, was reported from the Finance committee to-day, with an amendment making it even more stringent than before. It was passed after brief debate, and sent to the House, which at once agreed to the amendment. The following is the text of the bill as it will go to the President to-morrow morning for his signature:

Be it enacted, &c., That from and after this date no distilled spirits shall be withdrawn or removed from any warehouse for the purpose of transportation, redistillation, rectification, change of packages, exportation, or for any other purpose whatever, until the full tax on such spirits shall have been paid. And all acts and parts of acts, inconsistent with the provisions hereof, are hereby repealed.

Admiral Semmes.

This gentleman delivered two lectures in this city on the 8th and 9th inst., and on each night, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, had respectable and attentive audiences. His lecture on the first night was a description of the "Alabama," and the place where he received possession of her. She was called "21" by the Federals, but that was not her name, but was only the two hundredth and ninety-first boat that had left the dock yard of her builders. The Alabama was a steamer but moved about as a sailing vessel, and used her engines only when necessary to escape from the enemy or capture a prize. The pictures which the Admiral drew of moonlight scenes on the ocean, while he was cruising near the Island of Flores were beautiful in the extreme. He said he had taken a merchantman bound to Boston from the East Indies, and before putting the torch to her, had given the officers and crew their small boats, six in number, and permitted them to carry away with them all they could. When they started toward the Island of Flores night had come on, and the moon had risen as she only can on the ocean. At a given signal, the six boats moved away from the Alabama, the sailors struck up an old familiar sea-song and kept time with their oaken oars as they receded from view. The Island of Flores in the distance, and standing as it were between the Alabama and the rising moon threw a shadow over the sea, the songs of the sailors, their receding boats, and the rolling ocean, all taken together made an impression on his mind that has never left him. Whether it was a presentiment or not, he could not say.

We must say that his descriptive powers are very fine. The information which he imparts with reference to the winds and tides of the ocean are invaluable. He is a man of great firmness, but we believe is possessed of as much humanity as any on earth. This is shown by the manner in which he treated his prisoners. He is a good man and has, as he is entitled the respect and sympathy of our people.

Oyster Supper at the Rankin House.

To be given by the Ladies of Cynthia on Thursday evening, January 16th 1868.

The object of this entertainment is to procure means to purchase artificial limbs for Miss Mattie Boyd, whom our readers will remember as the victim of a sad accident on the K C railroad, several years since; having had her limbs taken directly off by falling under the car. Were she enabled to buy artificial limbs, she could procure for herself the necessities and comforts of life, as she is a neat, industrious and intelligent young lady.

The Harrison band has very generously offered its services for the occasion. The proprietor of the Rankin House, and his most worthy lady, with the usual benevolence of true-hearted Kentuckians, offer their house and all its accommodations.

In connection with the supper the ladies propose that votes be cast for a handsome velvet vest, to be given to one who shall receive the greatest number of votes. The candidates are Elder D. W. Case, Rev. Mr. Kennard, Father Brantz and Rev. Mr. Wightman. Price of votes, 25cts.

The ladies greatly desire a large attendance, and feel that an appeal to the citizens of Harrison county is all that is necessary.

An Act,

In regard to the Coleman Moore School Fund, of Harrison county.

Whereas, Coleman Moore devised in trust to the county of Harrison for the benefit of the poor orphans of Harrison county, some sixteen thousand dollars, and whereas, A. D. Moore, the late trustee has been removed by an order of the Judge of the Harrison Circuit Court, and whereas, the money constituting the trust fund is now under the control of said court, and no one can be found to take charge of said fund and be responsible therefor; and whereas, the people of Harrison county as faithful guardians of said fund desire the perfect security thereof.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, that the Chancellor or Judge of the Circuit Court of Harrison county may direct the Master Commissioner of said Court to loan the entire fund to the county of Harrison, at a rate of interest not to exceed eight per cent, payable semi-annually, viz: One half thereof January 1st, and the other half July 1st of each year, and the said loan to be made for twenty years, and that the county of Harrison, through the County Court thereof, are hereby authorized to borrow the same, and issue bonds therefor to be signed by the Judge of the county court and attested by the Clerk under the seal of said county, which bonds shall be returned to the circuit court, and be subject to the orders of the Judge thereof.

Second, That the interest arising upon said bonds shall be held and appropriated by the county court for the sole purpose of educating the poor orphans of Harrison county, as provided in the will of Coleman Moore.

Third, That the county court of Harrison are hereby authorized to levy as a part of the county levy, such sum as they may deem sufficient to pay the semi-annual interest accruing upon the bonds of the county where issued, and order and direct the Sheriff when and to whom to pay the same.

Fourth, That the county court of Harrison is hereby authorized and permitted to employ the Common School Commissioner of the county to distribute the interest arising from said Moore School Fund, as they may order and direct the same, and allow him therefor any sum not exceeding three dollars per day for every day engaged, and said allowance to be paid in the same manner now authorized by law for the payment of the Common School Commissioner.

Fifth, That said Commissioner shall settle his accounts under this act, once each year at the October term of said county court, and any balance of interest accruing upon said fund, and not necessary to be expended for the education of the poor orphans of said county, shall be loaned at interest under the order of the Harrison circuit court, until required for distribution.

Sixth, This act to take effect from its passage.

The Democracy of Ohio met in State Convention, on Wednesday the 8th inst., at Columbus. H. G. Jewett and R. P. Raney, were selected as electors at large, and J. G. Thomas, C. W. McCook, W. W. Armstrong and W. M. Dean, as delegates at large to the National Convention. Hon. G. H. Pendleton, was declared to be the unanimous choice of the Democracy of Ohio, for next President of the United States.

In noticing the recent Democratic meeting in Louisville, and the action of the 13 party, the Lexington Observer and Reporter says:

We have frequently expressed our views upon this matter. We have ever been in favor of the merging of all truly conservative men into the Democratic party, but opposed to any mere combination as the result of a treaty.

In the coming contest there can be no third party—every man in Kentucky must be a Radical or a Democrat, or refrain entirely from taking a part in the important canvass at hand. This is perfectly apparent, and all ought to act upon it.

WARM WORK AHEAD.—We hear it rumored that Gen. Brisbin, the friend of Gen. Burbridge, proposes to hold to a personal responsibility editors who have been abusive of him. Who speaks first.—Frank. Yeo.

We have heard of pole-cats prowling around in the night time for a fight, and it is historical that they have met lions, but no record has ever been made of any fighting.

Mule Trade in Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 7, 1867. To the editor of the Louisville Courier:

Believing that a word from a Kentucky mule driver would be of use to the mule feeders of Kentucky, I shall ask you to give this notice space in your columns.

I have visited all the Eastern mule markets, and find them all full of mules, the markets dull and fast declining. The Ohio and Kentucky mules that had been shipped to Eastern markets of late being so unusual it has prostrated the markets. The Messrs Redmons, of Bourbon, McDowell, of Boyle, and Cobb, of Madison, arrived here yesterday with two hundred fine, 15 hand, well fattened mules, and are offered at $125 per head. Deduct from expenses $20 per head, their stock net them $105. The decline here in thirty days has been thirty dollars per head. A few mere arrivals will add to the decline as much more. The feeders would do well to keep their mules in their feeding pens at home, and investigate before shipping.

J. M. MILLER, of Lebanon.

KENTUCKY POLITICS.—Each Congressional District is entitled to two delegates to the general convention of the Democratic party. Lincoln county has proposed the name of Colonel J. Warren Grigsby; Scott we understand, desires that Colonel Sordard Johnston be selected; the friends of General Basil Duke will urge his selection. Major Ben Buckner, of Clark, is proposed; Judge Norva, of Nicholas, is proposed. Perhaps there are others, whose names may be mentioned. For the State at large a friend has suggested Hon. Richard M. Stanton, of Maysville; Gen. Jo Lewis, of Barren, and Thomas McGreary, of Daviess. General Lucius Desha and Hon. James B. Beck are proposed by the Cynthia News. All these are good and true men. The Democracy of Kentucky can boast many a member, full able to represent her worthily in that convention.—Obs. & Rep.

A. C. Barrow sold some days ago a two-year old steer to John Snyder, weighing 1,755 pounds, for ten cents per pound. This steer took ribbons at the late fairs in this and Montgomery counties.—Win. Dem.

Col. H. K. Milward has retired from the cashiership of the Lexington Statesman, and is succeeded by Capt. Clay Goodloe, heretofore the enterprising local editor of that paper.

The Frankfort Yeoman says: Senator Sherman's new whisky bill proposes to collect the tax before the liquor leaves the distillery, and to do away with the bonded warehouses. It says there are twenty-two million gallons of whisky now bonded, and alleges that while the government should receive one hundred millions from distilled spirits, the amount is reduced by fraudulent practices to less than thirty millions. Mr. Wells, the special commissioner of the Internal revenue, recommends the reductions of the tax to fifty cents per gallon, and believes it will add to the revenue, as removing temptation to commit fraud.

That justly popular Hotel, the Southern, at Lexington, is now under the control of the Prince of Landlords, Col. Worley. The reputation of this house has been well earned. The table is furnished with every edible the market affords, and the servants attentive and prompt, the rooms comfortable, the beds clean, and charges reasonable. In Lexington, if one desires to see strangers the Southern Hotel is the place.

A negress, speaking of one of her children who was lighter colored than the rest, said: "I nebber could bear that brat, 'cause she show dirt so easy."

The Great Medical Annual.

Hostetter's United States Almanac for 1868, for distribution, gratis, throughout the United States and all civilized countries of the Western Hemisphere, will be published about the first of January, and all who wish to understand the true philosophy of health should read and ponder the valuable suggestion it contains. In addition to an admirable medical treatise on the causes, prevention and cure of a great variety of diseases, it embraces a large amount of information interesting to the merchant, mechanic, the miner, the farmer, the planter, and professional man; and the calculations have been made for such meridians and latitudes as are most suitable for a correct and comprehensive National Calendar. The nature, uses, and extraordinary salutary effects of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the staple tonic and alterative of more than half the Christian World, are fully set forth in its pages, which are also interspersed with valuable receipts, humorous anecdotes and other instructive and amusing reading matter, original and selected. Among the Annals is issued with the opening of the year, this will be one of the most useful, and may be had for the asking. Send for copies to the Central Manufactory, at Pittsburgh, or to the nearest agent for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The Bitters are sold in every city, town, and village of the United States.

FOR SALE,

Privately, my residence and store attached, situated on Main street, in the village of Leesburg, Harrison county, Ky., lying half way between Cynthia and Georgetown, being ten miles from each place. The said residence is well known as being the old stand of the late John D. Thomas, a merchant of long standing in that place. The property consists of a

Comfortable Brick Dwelling, containing 5 rooms, finished neatly with large store and ware rooms attached, kitchen and servants room, meat and ash houses and dairy, all built of brick and in perfect order. The grounds consist of

2 1-2 or 3 Acres,

Of land, part in a yard and garden, part in lots. Out the latter are all necessary out-buildings, such as stables, buggy and cow houses, corn crib, hen house, lumber room, &c. Also, a quantity of fruit trees, some young, some bearing, such as grapes, pears, cherries, apples, peaches, quinces, currants, gooseberries, &c.

The yard is a bower of vines, flowers and shrubs, also a never failing cistern, noted for its pure drinking water.

Any one wishing such a place would do well to call and examine for themselves.

Terms made liberal to suit purchasers. A perfect and unencumbered title made to said property, by Mrs. M. K. THOMAS, Executrix of the late J. D. Thomas. Dec 26th

LYON'S PERIODICAL
DROPS!
The Great Female Remedy for Irregularities!!!

I HAVE tested these Drops in my own practice, over ten years, and do not hesitate to say, that nothing has yet been developed by medical research, that acts so powerfully, positively and harmlessly, in cases of female irregularity, as does this medicine. In all recent cases, it never fails, while thousands who have been long sufferers, are indebted to it for the boon of health to-day.
Although so powerful and positive, they perfectly harmless, and may be used at all times, except when specially forbidden in the directions.
They have been extensively employed by eminent physicians in France and England, as well as in my own practice, over ten years, and I have yet to hear of the first instance of failure. I could give you testimonials of their efficacy from ladies all over the Northern and North Western States, were they not in their nature, private. Over 100,000 bottles have been sold the last year, and I hope and trust as many sufferers have been benefited. I am well aware that a remedy so potent to remove all obstructions, may be used for a bad purpose, but trust that when one bottle is thus used, ten may fall into the hands of really needy sufferers.
To all who suffer from any irregularity: painful, difficult, excessive, offensive or obstructed Menstruation, Leucorrhoea, or the train of diseases that follow, I would say, try a bottle of Dr. Lyon's French Periodical Drops. Being a fluid preparation, their action is more direct and positive than any pills or powders. Explicit directions, bearing my facsimile, accompany each bottle.
They may be obtained of nearly every druggist in the country, or by enclosing the price to C. G. Clark & Co., New Haven, Ct., General agents for the United States in Canada.

POLLANDS
POWDERS!!!
THIS PREPARATION IS THE DIScovery of the Rev. J. W. Poland, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church in Goffstown, N. H., and a man dearly beloved by that denomination throughout New England. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine to save his own life, and his Magic Powders are one of the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is the great Liver and Bilious remedy, which completely throws in the shade all other discoveries in medicine; and it affords him much gratification that they receive the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The Magic Bilious Powders are a positive cure for Liver Complaint, in its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of all Bilious Derangements. Excellent for headache, constipation, pimples, blotches, a sallow skin, drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, palpitation and a most wonderful cure and preventive for Fever and Ague. [We advise all who are troubled with this fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand for immediate use.]
Here are a few important particulars:
1st.—They are the Great Specific for all Bilious Affections.
2d.—They are the only known remedy that will cure Liver Complaint.
3d.—They are the only known remedy that will cure Constipation.
4th.—The Powders are so thorough in their operation that one package will be all that the majority of those using them will require to effect a cure.
5th.—They are a mild and pleasant yet the most effectual cathartic known.
6th.—They are the cheapest and best medicine extant, as they can be sent by mail to any part of the world for the price, 50 cents. Circulars, containing certificates, information, &c. sent to any part of the world free of charge.
Sold by all druggists, or by mail on application to C. G. CLARK & CO., General Agents New Haven, Conn. Price 50 cents per box.

J. J. GOOD,
GUNSMITHING,
AND DEALER IN
Guns, Pistols, and all kinds of Pistol Cartridges. Superior Gun Powder, Powder Flasks, Shot 'Bags,' and all kinds of sporting apparatus.
Also a large assortment of Keys on hand, and fitted to suit locks of all kinds.
ALSO the exclusive right of Harrison county, for the sale of the Singer New

Family Sewing Machine,
This machine is without a superior in the world. It runs as fast and easy and with as little noise as any first class machine in market. It will sew from the stoutest leather to the finest bank bill, and makes every stitch perfect. It hems, fells, binds, cords and tucks; and is adapted to every variety of work. It is strong, compact, and durable, and will last twenty years, for ordinary family sewing, if not broken by accident or carelessness. But it is useless to parade a long list of the merits of this machine before the public, as the poorest concerns furnish them in the greatest abundance. All can try this machine by calling on the agent and it will proclaim its own merits.
